Open in browser

EADO
European Association of Dermato Oncology

OCTOBER 2026

EADO Monthly Insight

The Official Newsletter of the European Association of Dermato-Oncology

Dear Colleagues,

What happens when new evidence challenges familiar assumptions—and opens unexpected possibilities? Our Journal Club in this October issue of EADO Monthly Insight brings that excitement to the forefront, from reconsidering melanoma screening to uncovering new ways to overcome therapeutic resistance. Fresh from the EADV Congress 2026 in Vienna, we also highlight emerging approaches to intralesional immunotherapy in basal cell carcinoma, selective JAK1 inhibition in cutaneous T-cell lymphoma, and molecular risk stratification in melanoma. Following the successful EADO Preceptorship in Rome, our educational journey continues in Essen. In addition, our new membership model offers further opportunities to learn, contribute and help shape EADO's work.

We invite you to explore this issue, bringing its questions into your clinical and research discussions and taking an active part in our EADO community.

With best regards,
Alexander Stratigos
on behalf of the Editorial Team

Christoffer Gebhardt
Editorial Board Member

Peter Koelblinger
Editorial Board Member

Eduardo Nagore
Editorial Board Member

Alexander Stratigos
Editorial Board Member

IN THIS ISSUE

JOURNAL CLUB

- Population Skin Cancer Screening and Melanoma Mortality
- Linking MAPK Resistance to Immune Escape in Melanoma
- Beyond the Tumour: PLA2G2D Reveals an Immune Checkpoint in Melanoma-Draining Lymph Nodes

EADO INSIGHTS & ACTIVITIES

- EADO Skin Cancer Centers of Excellence Preceptorship - Rome
- New EADO Membership Model